

Tue, Mar 17 at 9:03 AM

I need to build a website that shows what i can do for my future clients, it should include 2-3 cases, portfolio of creative content. What else is important?

1. A Clear Positioning Statement (Above the Fold)

Your homepage must instantly answer three questions: Who are you for? What problem do you solve? Why should they trust you?

Most portfolio websites fail because they start with “About me.” Instead, lead with a sharp positioning statement.

Example structure:

- Headline: The transformation you create
- Subline: How you do it and for whom
- Proof: Key metrics, logos, or credibility

Example concept:

“Turning healthcare products into trusted brands that sell.”

Followed by: “Brand strategy, growth marketing and conversion-driven creative for health and wellness companies.”

This makes visitors understand your value within 5 seconds.

2. Case Studies That Prove Business Impact

2–3 cases are perfect, but they must show outcomes, not just visuals.

Structure every case like this:

Problem → Strategy → Execution → Results

Include:

- Client context
- Market challenge
- Strategic thinking
- Creative work
- Measurable results

Example elements inside a case:

- Before/after positioning
- Campaign assets
- Funnel or growth strategy
- Metrics (conversion, revenue, CAC, engagement)

Clients hire strategic thinking, not just design.

3. A Focused Portfolio (Not Everything)

Your portfolio should show range with purpose, not volume.

Select work that demonstrates 3–4 capabilities you want to sell:

Examples:

- Brand strategy & positioning
- Visual identity systems
- Growth campaigns
- Performance creative
- Product storytelling

Group the work into capability clusters, not random projects.

Example sections:

- Brand Strategy
- Campaign Creative
- Product Marketing
- Conversion Design

This frames you as a business partner, not a freelancer.

4. Your Strategic Thinking (Your Real Differentiator)

Very few creative professionals explain how they think.

Add a section like:

“How I Build Growth for Brands”

Explain your approach in 4–5 steps.

Example framework:

1. Market & audience insight
2. Brand positioning
3. Growth strategy
4. Creative execution
5. Testing & optimization

This attracts serious clients, not just people looking for cheap design.

5. Authority Signals (Trust Builders)

Clients need reassurance before contacting you.

Important credibility signals:

- Brands you worked with
- Revenue or growth metrics
- Testimonials
- Media mentions
- Awards (if relevant)

Even simple proof works well:

“Helped launch and scale a healthcare product across Nordic markets.”

6. A Clear Services Section

Many portfolio sites lose clients because they don't clearly explain what they sell.

Define 3–4 service packages.

Example:

Brand & Market Strategy

Positioning, messaging, category strategy.

Growth Marketing Systems

Campaign architecture, funnel strategy.

Conversion-Focused Creative

Ad creative, landing pages, performance design.

Product Storytelling

Launch narratives and product marketing.

This helps companies quickly understand when to hire you.

7. A Strong “About” That Shows Leadership

Your about page should not be a biography.

Instead frame it around:

- Your experience
- What you believe about growth
- Industries you understand
- Why clients trust you

Given your background (designer → strategist → CMO), this can be very powerful.

Position yourself as:

“A brand strategist with operator experience.”

That combination is rare.

8. A Simple Conversion Path (Contact)

Your site needs one clear action:

Examples:

- Book a call
- Start a project
- Discuss a growth challenge

Include:

- Short form
- Calendar link
- Email

Make it extremely easy to contact you.

9. Thought Leadership (Optional but Powerful)

Add a small section with insights like:

- Growth frameworks
- Brand strategy thinking
- Marketing breakdowns
- Short articles

This builds authority and SEO.

Even 3–4 strong articles can make a big difference.

10. Personal IP (Your Signature Method)

The strongest consultant websites include a named methodology.

Example:

“The Brand → Growth System”

or

“The Market Authority Framework”

It communicates that you don’t just execute — you have a repeatable system.

Simple Website Structure

1. Hero / positioning
2. Selected case studies
3. Services
4. Portfolio highlights
5. Methodology / thinking
6. Testimonials / proof
7. About
8. Contact

8 sections is enough.

Strategic Advice (Important)

Your website should sell the future you, not the past you.

Only show work that supports the type of projects you want.

If you want strategy clients → show strategy.

If you want growth clients → show metrics.

Your website is not a museum.

It is a client acquisition tool.

If you want, I can also show you:

- The exact structure of a high-converting consultant website
- 3 personal positioning angles that would fit your background extremely well
- How to turn your NYX-Medico / PAXINOX experience into a powerful case study
(this could actually be your strongest one).

ChatGPT can make mistakes. Check important info.